

contact us

Send information for calendars by 5 p.m. Monday. Use the online form at www.tallahassee.com/calendars or e-mail calendars@tallahassee.com. Questions? Call Lyssa Oberkresser at 671-6596.

ANSWER OF THE WEEK

Last week, we were talking about this week's release of the remake of the 1974 heist flick "The Taking of Pelham 1 2 3." We wanted to know which '70s Hollywood star played Denzel Washington's role as a policeman in the original. Was it George C. Scott, Jack Lemmon, Walter Matthau, Robert Mitchum, William Holden, Steve McQueen or Rock Hudson? Matthau, who usually starred in comedies, played it straight as the cop.

THIS WEEKEND

CAROLINE V. STURTZ/Special to the Democrat

ONSTAGE

Sisters are doing it for themselves in Beth Henley's Pulitzer Prize-winning play "Crimes of the Heart," which explores the often prickly bonds of sisterhood. The Tallahassee Little Theatre production, which features Jackie Viscusi as Meg and Joshua Weinstein as Doc Porter, wraps its run this weekend.

What: "Crimes of the Heart," by Beth Henley

When: 8 p.m. today and Saturday, 2 p.m.

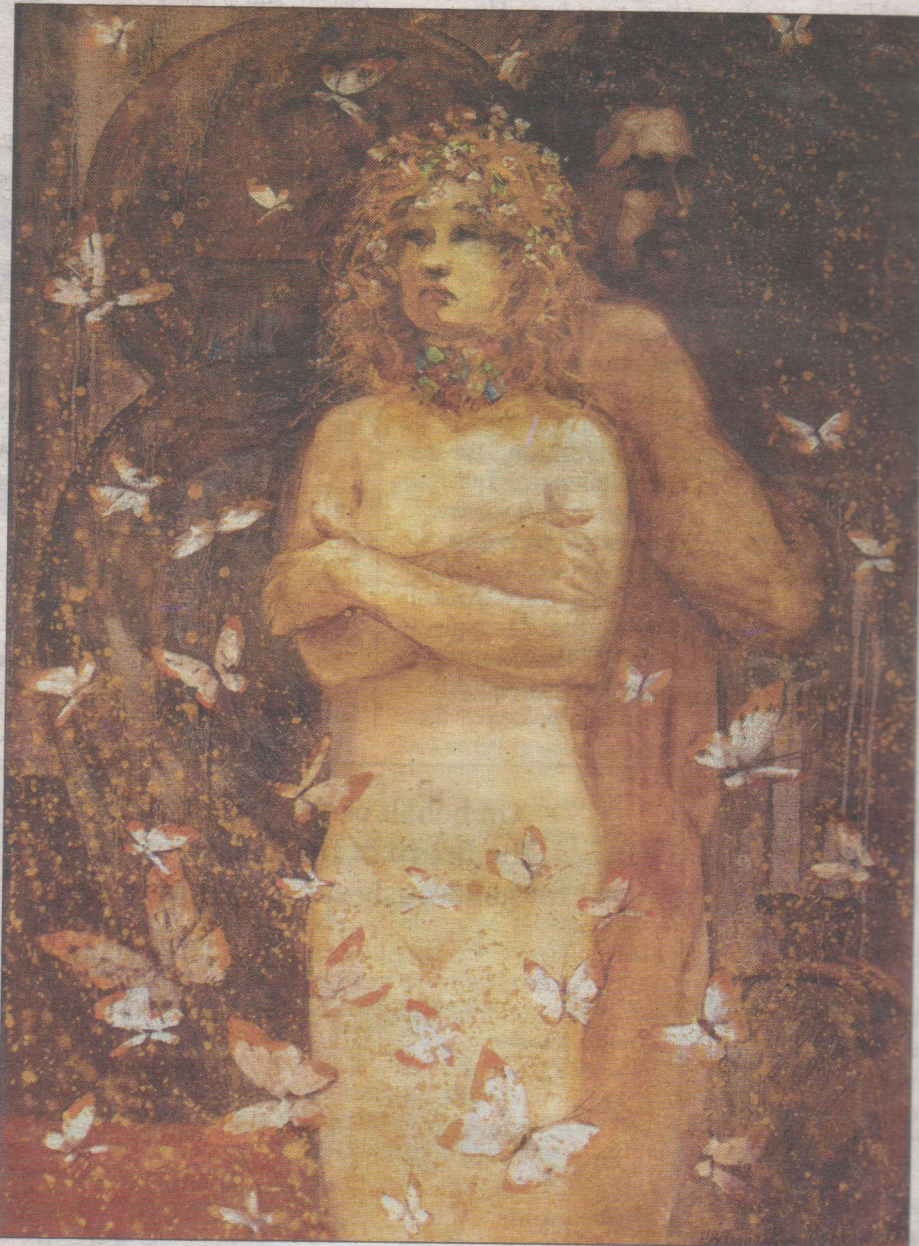

Sunday

Where: Tallahassee Little Theatre, 1861 Thomasville Road

Cost: Tickets are $17 for adults, $14 for students and senior citizens

Contact: Call 224-8474 or visit www.tallahasseelittletheatre.org

TODAY

ART OPENING

The Artists' League unveils its "5 Rings of Passion: Love, Anguish, Awe, Triumph, Joy" group exhibit during a reception from 7 to 9 p.m. today at the FSU Museum of Fine Arts, corner of Copeland and Call streets. It's free. The collection includes pottery, jewelry, photography, sculpture and oil paintings, such as Natalia Andreeva's "Muse" shown here. The "Passion" show runs through July 10. Call 644-1299 or visit www.artistsleaguefsu.org.